Noticing a sign and choosing a response

1 | Purpose, fit and boundaries

Purpose of this unit

Recognize an early sign of strong emotion, understand what matters or feels threatened, and choose a possible response that protects self and others. Regulation may involve asking for help or changing conditions, not only calming down.

Choice and adaptation

Choose this sheet following professional assessment and with consent. The person may skip questions, answer aloud, or choose another tool. This is proposed original material for review; it provides no score, diagnosis, or promise of an outcome.

Boundaries specific to this unit

This is not a safety plan and is not for use during immediate danger. Do not expect a harmed person to calm someone harmful or remain in an unsafe conversation. Do not require anger to disappear or reduce a real need to a breathing exercise.

Reusing existing material

CORE-02 maps thoughts, feelings and responses. Here the focus is noticing a personal sign and choosing a response and support in advance; do not replace contextual assessment or an existing safety plan.

> Draft for administrator review. Clinical review and final rights approval are still pending.

Working together with the worksheet

2 | A conversation about one situation

Opening

Choose a situation the person wants to explore. It need not be the hardest situation. Check that the question is understood and the wording fits the person; their account comes before the therapist's interpretation.

1 | Question for discussion

What specific situation did I choose to explore?

2 | Question for discussion

What sign appeared before my response?

3 | Question for discussion

What need or boundary required understanding?

4 | Question for discussion

What possible responses fit the context?

5 | Question for discussion

What will signal a need to stop or seek more support?

Closing

Summarize what became clearer and what remains open. Use the existing SES-S01 and SES-S02 for the session framework. There is no need to repeat an assessment or plan already recorded.

Adapting for four age groups

3 | Age is a starting point, not an assumption about ability

CH | Children, approximately ages 6 to 11

Work during a calm time with a concrete sign. Adults retain responsibility for safety; regulation must not be a condition for receiving support.

Offer one question at a time with little writing. Adult support must not replace the child's own voice.

TE | Adolescents, approximately ages 12 to 17

Make room for fairness, boundaries and dignity. Discuss choosing a response without invalidating the feeling itself.

Agree in advance what will be shared and with whom, and explain the privacy limits in this setting. Do not promise absolute confidentiality.

AD | Adults

Explore power differences, workload and surroundings; choosing a response does not replace addressing a source of harm.

OA | Older adults

Adapt the response to actual ability and preference. Do not require movement, a physical exercise or a particular breathing practice.

Offer reading support, time, and conversation according to preference. Choose help from another person together with the participant, respecting their privacy.

> Each age version needs its own review. Approval of one version does not automatically approve the others.

Practice, review and next steps

4 | Shared choice and learning from the attempt

Before offering practice sheet P

Decide together whether practice between sessions is appropriate at all. Define one opportunity, boundaries, and desired support. Practice may take place only in the session. There is no required daily sequence or requirement to share the sheet with others.

At the next session

Check whether there was room to choose and what supported it, even if the feeling did not weaken. If this was not possible, adapt support and surroundings. If harm occurred, explore responsibility and repair in context rather than requiring an automatic apology.

Professional and technical records

Each version has a separate review record covering age suitability, originality, rights, and fictional filling. Reviewer and date fields remain blank until assigned. File checks or a code merge are not clinical approval. Clinical information stays only in the authorized setting, outside the code repository.
