Repair after conflict

1 | Purpose, fit and boundaries

Purpose of this unit

Distinguish the person's part in an event from what is not their responsibility, and choose possible repair when safe and suitable. Separate responsibility for an action from obligations to reconcile, forgive or renew contact.

Choice and adaptation

Choose this sheet following professional assessment and with consent. The person may skip questions, answer aloud, or choose another tool. This is proposed original material for review; it provides no score, diagnosis, or promise of an outcome.

Boundaries specific to this unit

Do not automatically divide responsibility equally, justify violence, force apologies or ask a harmed person to appease someone harmful. Address harm and risk before discussion; repair does not require direct contact or forgiveness.

Reusing existing material

REG-02 helps describe an event, and REG-04 phrases a request or boundary. Here the focus is impact, responsibility and repair after conflict, without repeatedly reconstructing the event.

A fictional example for discussion

Fictional example: Yael canceled a meeting without notice. She chooses to take responsibility for not notifying and clarify how she will communicate in future; she does not have to agree to every new date.

> Draft for administrator review. Clinical review and final rights approval are still pending.

Working together with the worksheet

2 | A conversation about one situation

Opening

Choose a situation the person wants to explore. It need not be the hardest situation. Check that the question is understood and the wording fits the person; their account comes before the therapist's interpretation.

1 | Question for discussion

What is a brief description of the conflict and known impact?

2 | Question for discussion

What is my responsibility, and what belongs to the other's choices?

3 | Question for discussion

What specific repair is possible and proportionate to the harm?

4 | Question for discussion

Is contact safe and suitable, or is another approach better?

5 | Question for discussion

What remains my boundary even if I choose repair?

Closing

Summarize what became clearer and what remains open. Use the existing SES-S01 and SES-S02 for the session framework. There is no need to repeat an assessment or plan already recorded.

Possible difficulties

If the person takes all the blame, return to actions and limits of responsibility. If the other person does not want contact, do not pressure them through repeated repair requests.

Adapting for four age groups

3 | Age is a starting point, not an assumption about ability

CH | Children, approximately ages 6 to 11

The adult helps distinguish an action from a label such as "bad child." Do not force an apology, hug or shared play, or make a child responsible for repairing adult relationships.

Offer one question at a time with little writing. Adult support must not replace the child's own voice.

TE | Adolescents, approximately ages 12 to 17

Check peer pressure and information sharing. Do not require a public apology or contact with someone threatening; choose mediation according to need and safety.

Agree in advance what will be shared and with whom, and explain the privacy limits in this setting. Do not promise absolute confidentiality.

AD | Adults

Distinguish ordinary conflict from a harmful pattern. Responsibility for part of an event does not mean accepting blame for another person's actions.

OA | Older adults

Respect choosing distance, including in family relationships. Repair may be practical and limited without giving up independence or resources.

Offer reading support, time, and conversation according to preference. Choose help from another person together with the participant, respecting their privacy.

Practice, review and next steps

4 | Shared choice and learning from the attempt

Before offering practice sheet P

Choose a safe, suitable opportunity with the person, or use only a fictional conversation in the session. Do not provoke anger or create conflict to complete the sheet. Skipping, stopping and seeking help are options. Harm and threats need an appropriate response before communication practice.

At the next session

Assess the step's fit and safety. The other person's response is outside one's control; lack of forgiveness does not make repair worthless or require unlimited effort.

Professional and technical records

Each version has a separate review record covering age suitability, originality, rights, and fictional filling. Reviewer and date fields remain blank until assigned. File checks or a code merge are not clinical approval. Clinical information stays only in the authorized setting, outside the code repository.
