SELF-03 | Therapist only - all age groups

A broader, grounded self-description

1 | Purpose, fit and boundaries

Purpose of this unit

Develop a self-description including facts, context, strengths and limitations alongside a particular event. The result is a fuller picture that is not reduced to a label and does not require compliments or complete certainty.

Choice and adaptation

Choose this sheet following professional assessment and with consent. The person may skip questions, answer aloud, or choose another tool. This is proposed original material for review; it provides no score, diagnosis, or promise of an outcome.

Boundaries specific to this unit

Do not require a list of positive qualities, argue with pain or infer low worth from limited functioning. Do not request unnecessary details. The description is chosen and revisable, not a personality score.

Reusing existing material

SELF-01 already separates events from worth. Here we broaden the description beyond one event using facts and context; Core-04 can help explore interpretations without duplicating a form.

> Draft for administrator review. Clinical review and final rights approval are still pending.

Working together with the worksheet

2 | A conversation about one situation

Opening

Choose a situation the person wants to explore. It need not be the hardest situation. Check that the question is understood and the wording fits the person; their account comes before the therapist's interpretation.

1 | Question for discussion

What sweeping description do I apply to myself?

2 | Question for discussion

What events is it based on, and what details does it leave out?

3 | Question for discussion

What other strengths, choices or contexts matter?

4 | Question for discussion

What limitations can I recognize without making them my whole identity?

5 | Question for discussion

What more specific, grounded description suits me?

Closing

Summarize what became clearer and what remains open. Use the existing SES-S01 and SES-S02 for the session framework. There is no need to repeat an assessment or plan already recorded.

Adapting for four age groups

3 | Age is a starting point, not an assumption about ability

CH | Children, approximately ages 6 to 11

Use conversation or drawing without requiring a strengths list. Do not correct the child through praise unrelated to their experience.

Offer one question at a time with little writing. Adult support must not replace the child's own voice.

TE | Adolescents, approximately ages 12 to 17

Respect changing identity and privacy. Do not require achievements, photos or online reactions as proof of worth.

Agree in advance what will be shared and with whom, and explain the privacy limits in this setting. Do not promise absolute confidentiality.

AD | Adults

Describe behavior and context rather than sweeping labels. Help from others does not erase the person's choices or contribution.

OA | Older adults

Make room for the present and earlier experience by choice, without requiring a life review or recalling memories.

Offer reading support, time, and conversation according to preference. Choose help from another person together with the participant, respecting their privacy.

> Each age version needs its own review. Approval of one version does not automatically approve the others.

Practice, review and next steps

4 | Shared choice and learning from the attempt

Before offering practice sheet P

Decide together whether practice between sessions is appropriate at all. Define one opportunity, boundaries, and desired support. Practice may take place only in the session. There is no required daily sequence or requirement to share the sheet with others.

At the next session

Check that the wording reflects information and complexity. There is no need to prove every negative description wrong or gather evidence repeatedly.

Professional and technical records

Each version has a separate review record covering age suitability, originality, rights, and fictional filling. Reviewer and date fields remain blank until assigned. File checks or a code merge are not clinical approval. Clinical information stays only in the authorized setting, outside the code repository.
