Building capability through action

1 | Purpose, fit and boundaries

Purpose of this unit

Choose an action connected to a personal value and explore learning from it without making worth depend on success. The result is an adapted attempt with a learning criterion and wanted support.

Choice and adaptation

Choose this sheet following professional assessment and with consent. The person may skip questions, answer aloud, or choose another tool. This is proposed original material for review; it provides no score, diagnosis, or promise of an outcome.

Boundaries specific to this unit

Do not choose a dangerous challenge or make self-acceptance conditional on performance. Avoid tests of bravery, comparisons and achievement quotas. Action may include asking for help, setting a boundary or changing the plan.

Reusing existing material

Core-05 supports choosing a small step, and MOOD-03 adapts action to capacity during low mood. Here the focus is learning about capability without turning the outcome into a test of self-worth.

> Draft for administrator review. Clinical review and final rights approval are still pending.

Working together with the worksheet

2 | A conversation about one situation

Opening

Choose a situation the person wants to explore. It need not be the hardest situation. Check that the question is understood and the wording fits the person; their account comes before the therapist's interpretation.

1 | Question for discussion

What action relates to something I value in my life?

2 | Question for discussion

What scope of attempt is reasonable for my ability and resources?

3 | Question for discussion

What support would allow more independent choice?

4 | Question for discussion

What information would I like to learn without grading myself?

5 | Question for discussion

What alternative would remain respectful if I cannot do it?

Closing

Summarize what became clearer and what remains open. Use the existing SES-S01 and SES-S02 for the session framework. There is no need to repeat an assessment or plan already recorded.

Adapting for four age groups

3 | Age is a starting point, not an assumption about ability

CH | Children, approximately ages 6 to 11

Choose a brief attempt in play or everyday activity. Describe and acknowledge choice and learning without grading the child.

Offer one question at a time with little writing. Adult support must not replace the child's own voice.

TE | Adolescents, approximately ages 12 to 17

Allow choices not measured by grades, likes or social approval. Respect the right not to share the outcome.

Agree in advance what will be shared and with whom, and explain the privacy limits in this setting. Do not promise absolute confidentiality.

AD | Adults

Separate professional or family outcomes from personal worth. Recognize resources and barriers outside the person's control.

OA | Older adults

Respect present goals and chosen support. Accepting help does not cancel capability or independence in decision-making.

Offer reading support, time, and conversation according to preference. Choose help from another person together with the participant, respecting their privacy.

Practice, review and next steps

4 | Shared choice and learning from the attempt

Before offering practice sheet P

Decide together whether practice between sessions is appropriate at all. Define one opportunity, boundaries, and desired support. Practice may take place only in the session. There is no required daily sequence or requirement to share the sheet with others.

At the next session

Focus on what was learned and conditions that can be adapted. The challenge need not increase each time, nor must performance become unassisted.

Professional and technical records

Each version has a separate review record covering age suitability, originality, rights, and fictional filling. Reviewer and date fields remain blank until assigned. File checks or a code merge are not clinical approval. Clinical information stays only in the authorized setting, outside the code repository.

The following links were used for background only. Questions and adaptations were written afresh for the expansion plan; no questionnaire, scale, or protocol was copied. Adult sources do not validate the child versions. This material makes no claim about session count or treatment effectiveness.
