Next steps and meaningful dates

1 | Purpose, fit and boundaries

Purpose of this unit

Prepare by choice for a date, meeting, or recurring situation that may be meaningful, and explore desired support. Summarize learning from the series without deciding that grief or adjustment must end.

Choice and adaptation

Choose this sheet following professional assessment and with consent. The person may skip questions, answer aloud, or choose another tool. This is proposed original material for review; it provides no score, diagnosis, or promise of an outcome.

Boundaries specific to this unit

There is no required end date for grief, obligation to attend a ritual, or promise that a response will disappear with time. Do not use the sheet for exposure to a difficult event or diagnosis. Significant or increasing distress requires appropriate assessment and support.

Reusing existing material

Select only relevant information from CHANGE-01–05. The plan may contain just one request or supportive person; there is no need to recreate a full plan for every date.

A fictional example for discussion

Fictional example: As the birthday of a close person who died approaches, Ruth chooses a short conversation with a friend. She leaves room to change the plan and does not commit to attending a family event.

> Draft for administrator review. Clinical review and final rights approval are still pending.

Working together with the worksheet

2 | A conversation about one situation

Opening

Choose a situation the person wants to explore. It need not be the hardest situation. Check that the question is understood and the wording fits the person; their account comes before the therapist's interpretation.

1 | Question for discussion

What date or meeting calls for preparation from my perspective?

2 | Question for discussion

What is known about it, and what remains uncertain?

3 | Question for discussion

What choices and boundaries would I like to set?

4 | Question for discussion

Who can support me before, during, or afterward?

5 | Question for discussion

How will I update the plan if my needs change?

Closing

Summarize what became clearer and what remains open. Use the existing SES-S01 and SES-S02 for the session framework. There is no need to repeat an assessment or plan already recorded.

Possible difficulties

Sometimes there is no wish to plan ahead. Agreeing only on a way to ask for help is possible, without predicting feelings or creating an obligation to remember every date.

Adapting for four age groups

3 | Age is a starting point, not an assumption about ability

CH | Children, approximately ages 6 to 11

An adult provides clear, appropriate information about what to expect and who will be available. Do not give the child responsibility for rituals, arrangements, or others' feelings.

Offer one question at a time with little writing. Adult support must not replace the child's own voice.

TE | Adolescents, approximately ages 12 to 17

Allow choice about attendance, posting, and sharing with peers. Do not interpret a choice different from the family's as disrespect or a lack of connection.

Agree in advance what will be shared and with whom, and explain the privacy limits in this setting. Do not promise absolute confidentiality.

AD | Adults

Needs can be coordinated with work, family, and community without unwanted disclosure. Customs or faith are considered according to the person's wishes, not as a therapeutic requirement.

OA | Older adults

Respect customs and personal history without assuming the person wants to repeat every ritual. Arranging access or company should support their choice.

Offer reading support, time, and conversation according to preference. Choose help from another person together with the participant, respecting their privacy.

> Each age version needs its own review. Approval of one version does not automatically approve the others.

Practice, review and next steps

4 | Shared choice and learning from the attempt

Before offering practice sheet P

Choose one date or situation only if preparation is helpful. Prepare a contact person and an alternative plan, or choose not to plan. Attendance or recording during the event is not required.

At the next session

Ask what suited the person and what needs further support. Ending the series does not end grief, and one date cannot predict how someone will feel in the future.

Professional and technical records

Each version has a separate review record covering age suitability, originality, rights, and fictional filling. Reviewer and date fields remain blank until assigned. File checks or a code merge are not clinical approval. Clinical information stays only in the authorized setting, outside the code repository.
