A family conversation with room for every voice

1 | Purpose, fit and boundaries

Purpose of this unit

Prepare a conversation about one need within a family relationship assessed as suitable and safe for discussion. Children and adolescents use sheets in their own voice; adults use sheets in a parent or supporting family member role.

Choice and adaptation

Choose this sheet following professional assessment and with consent. The person may skip questions, answer aloud, or choose another tool. This is proposed original material for review; it provides no score, diagnosis, or promise of an outcome.

Boundaries specific to this unit

Do not combine answers without consent, force disclosure, or make a child responsible for resolving conflict. Where there is fear, coercion, or violence, do not use this sheet to invite a joint conversation; professional assessment and appropriate support are needed. Set privacy boundaries in advance.

Reusing existing material

SOC-01 can help with expressing a need. This unit does not replace relationship assessment, parenting coordination, or professional family therapy.

> Draft for administrator review. Clinical review and final rights approval are still pending.

Working together with the worksheet

2 | A conversation about one situation

Opening

Choose a situation the person wants to explore. It need not be the hardest situation. Check that the question is understood and the wording fits the person; their account comes before the therapist's interpretation.

1 | Question for discussion

What is my role in the relationship, and what is the one topic for discussion?

2 | Question for discussion

What did I see or hear, and what is only my interpretation?

3 | Question for discussion

What matters for me to understand from the child or adolescent?

4 | Question for discussion

What request can I offer without demanding disclosure?

5 | Question for discussion

How will I make room for refusal, privacy, and the other person's voice?

Closing

Summarize what became clearer and what remains open. Use the existing SES-S01 and SES-S02 for the session framework. There is no need to repeat an assessment or plan already recorded.

Adapting for four age groups

3 | Age is a starting point, not an assumption about ability

CH | Children, approximately ages 6 to 11

The questions are for the child; an adult may help with writing but should not answer for them. Sharing with family is not the default.

Offer one question at a time with little writing. Adult support must not replace the child's own voice.

TE | Adolescents, approximately ages 12 to 17

Clarify privacy, consent, and the limits of professional disclosure duties in advance. Do not require private messages to be shown.

Agree in advance what will be shared and with whom, and explain the privacy limits in this setting. Do not promise absolute confidentiality.

AD | Adults

The AD version is for a parent or supporting family member, not every adult based on age alone. Choose an appropriate role.

OA | Older adults

The OA version is for an older adult voluntarily taking a supporting family role. Do not assume parental authority or a duty of care.

Offer reading support, time, and conversation according to preference. Choose help from another person together with the participant, respecting their privacy.

> Each age version needs its own review. Approval of one version does not automatically approve the others.

Practice, review and next steps

4 | Shared choice and learning from the attempt

Before offering practice sheet P

Decide together whether practice between sessions is appropriate at all. Define one opportunity, boundaries, and desired support. Practice may take place only in the session. There is no required daily sequence or requirement to share the sheet with others.

At the next session

Check whether there was genuine choice and boundaries were respected. Declining a conversation is not failure. Do not record family agreement that was not given.

Professional and technical records

Each version has a separate review record covering age suitability, originality, rights, and fictional filling. Reviewer and date fields remain blank until assigned. File checks or a code merge are not clinical approval. Clinical information stays only in the authorized setting, outside the code repository.
