OCDYC-01 | OCDYC | Child aged 6–7 and a suitable support person

Ages 6–7: getting acquainted, hearing the child and choosing together

1 | Purpose, fit and boundaries

Purpose of this unit

Learn the language and preferences of a child aged 6–7, explore participation and who can accompany them. The form establishes neither diagnosis nor full treatment consent.

Choice and adaptation

Choose this sheet following professional assessment and with consent. The person may skip questions, answer aloud, or choose another tool. This is proposed original material for review; it provides no score, diagnosis, or promise of an outcome.

Boundaries specific to this unit

Do not impose a problem name or explanation of thoughts. Check developmentally appropriate child assent alongside guardian consent and professional duties; silence or completing a sheet does not consent to every action.

Reusing existing material

OCDYC is separate from ages 8 and over. Shortening an adult form does not establish suitability. This unit starts an adapted introduction; OCD-01 need not be completed first.

A fictional example for discussion

Fictional example: Yoav tells the therapist about a favorite game. Asked what is hard, he points to leaving time. His mother records his words separately from her observations, and the therapist explores his preferred participation.

> Draft for administrator review. Clinical review and final rights approval are still pending.

Working together with the worksheet

2 | A conversation about one situation

Opening

The therapist or support person reads one question. The child may use a few words, point or skip. Adults may write the child's words but not answer for them. Professional terms and descriptions of every thought are not required.

1 | Question for discussion

What do I like doing?

2 | Question for discussion

What moment in my day is a little hard?

3 | Question for discussion

Who do I feel comfortable talking with here?

4 | Question for discussion

How do I like answering: talking, pointing or another way?

5 | Question for discussion

What do I want the therapist to know about me?

Closing

Summarize what became clearer and what remains open. Use the existing SES-S01 and SES-S02 for the session framework. There is no need to repeat an assessment or plan already recorded.

Possible difficulties

If silent, get acquainted through a familiar activity and return to the question another time. Avoiding writing is not resistance. Do not promise rewards for disclosure.

Child, support person and therapist — separate roles

3 | Ages 6–7 only; developmental and family adaptation required

The voice of the child aged 6–7

Start with an interest and ask permission for the next question. Do not require independent reading or writing.

The parent or support person's role

Describe the reason for seeking help without blame. Clearly separate the child's words from your observations.

The therapist's role and adapting the setting

Explore development, language, setting, agreements and safeguarding duties. No approved treatment manual has been selected here; completion does not establish ERP readiness.

Limits of the material

Mapping against a full OCD manual and professional approval remain pending. This is original support material for review, not an approved ERP manual or its replacement.

> Do not apply this pathway to other age groups without separate review.

Practice, review and next steps

4 | Shared choice and learning from the attempt

Before offering practice sheet P

The P sheet is shared: two questions for the child's voice and three for supporter observations. Use only as agreed with the therapist, without child-alone exposure homework, abrupt response changes or punishment. Daily records and thought counts are unnecessary.

At the next session

Review what helped the child express choice, whether the supporter allowed their voice and what suitability questions remain before a treatment decision.

Professional and technical records

Each version has a separate review record covering age suitability, originality, rights, and fictional filling. Reviewer and date fields remain blank until assigned. File checks or a code merge are not clinical approval. Clinical information stays only in the authorized setting, outside the code repository.

Background references

The following links were used for background only. Questions and adaptations were written afresh for the expansion plan; no questionnaire, scale, or protocol was copied. Adult sources do not validate the child versions. This material makes no claim about session count or treatment effectiveness.

Treatment-manual mapping status

Mapping against a full OCD manual and professional approval remain pending. This is original support material for review, not an approved ERP manual or its replacement.
