OCDYC-03 | OCDYC | Child aged 6–7 and a suitable support person

Ages 6–7: understanding through words and play

1 | Purpose, fit and boundaries

Purpose of this unit

Check how the child and family understood the therapist's explanation using concrete language and a suitable activity the child agrees to.

Choice and adaptation

Choose this sheet following professional assessment and with consent. The person may skip questions, answer aloud, or choose another tool. This is proposed original material for review; it provides no score, diagnosis, or promise of an outcome.

Boundaries specific to this unit

Do not impose a character, story or name for OCD. Do not portray thoughts as a dangerous enemy or promise everything will disappear. Explanations or encouragement should not become required repetition for relief.

Reusing existing material

OCDYC is separate from ages 8 and over. Shortening an adult form does not establish suitability. Earlier OCDYC learning may help, but unit 3 does not prescribe a session number.

A fictional example for discussion

Fictional example: The therapist uses a brief example from Amit's chosen game. Amit says a word is unclear. She changes it and asks what he wants to do more.

> Draft for administrator review. Clinical review and final rights approval are still pending.

Working together with the worksheet

2 | A conversation about one situation

Opening

The therapist or support person reads one question. The child may use a few words, point or skip. Adults may write the child's words but not answer for them. Professional terms and descriptions of every thought are not required.

1 | Question for discussion

What word do I remember from our conversation?

2 | Question for discussion

What word would I like explained again?

3 | Question for discussion

What game or story helped me understand?

4 | Question for discussion

What would I like to be easier?

5 | Question for discussion

What do I want to ask the therapist?

Closing

Summarize what became clearer and what remains open. Use the existing SES-S01 and SES-S02 for the session framework. There is no need to repeat an assessment or plan already recorded.

Possible difficulties

Set aside frightening or confusing imagery. The child need not repeat the explanation correctly. Supporters report helpful words and those creating pressure.

Child, support person and therapist — separate roles

3 | Ages 6–7 only; developmental and family adaptation required

The voice of the child aged 6–7

Use a familiar activity with the child's agreement. A brief response is enough; there is no correct problem name.

The parent or support person's role

Use the session's chosen language without excessive repeated explanations. Preserve connection and warmth even before the child understands.

The therapist's role and adapting the setting

Adapt language to development and family background. The therapist explains CBT and ERP if suitable; this sheet does not teach treatment delivery.

Limits of the material

Mapping against a full OCD manual and professional approval remain pending. This is original support material for review, not an approved ERP manual or its replacement.

> Do not apply this pathway to other age groups without separate review.

Practice, review and next steps

4 | Shared choice and learning from the attempt

Before offering practice sheet P

The P sheet is shared: two questions for the child's voice and three for supporter observations. Use only as agreed with the therapist, without child-alone exposure homework, abrupt response changes or punishment. Daily records and thought counts are unnecessary.

At the next session

Check sufficient understanding for conversation and opportunities to ask. Do not test perfect model recall or infer treatment readiness from play.

Professional and technical records

Each version has a separate review record covering age suitability, originality, rights, and fictional filling. Reviewer and date fields remain blank until assigned. File checks or a code merge are not clinical approval. Clinical information stays only in the authorized setting, outside the code repository.

Background references

The following links were used for background only. Questions and adaptations were written afresh for the expansion plan; no questionnaire, scale, or protocol was copied. Adult sources do not validate the child versions. This material makes no claim about session count or treatment effectiveness.

Treatment-manual mapping status

Mapping against a full OCD manual and professional approval remain pending. This is original support material for review, not an approved ERP manual or its replacement.
