Agreements, relationships, and sharing boundaries

1 | Purpose, fit and boundaries

Purpose of this unit

Choose a personal or shared agreement about availability, use, and information sharing. The outcome is a clear boundary that considers relationships and needs, with a way to request change or help.

Choice and adaptation

Choose this sheet following professional assessment and with consent. The person may skip questions, answer aloud, or choose another tool. This is proposed original material for review; it provides no score, diagnosis, or promise of an outcome.

Boundaries specific to this unit

Do not demand proof of trust through a password, location, or photograph. Do not force a message response, posting, sharing, or ending contact. Threats, harassment, or extortion require appropriate support and are not ordinary negotiation.

Reusing existing material

Use needs from SCREEN-02 and settings from SCREEN-03. FAMILY-04 supports agreement at home; here, add boundaries around availability and digital information.

A fictional example for discussion

Fictional example: Lia feels she must reply immediately in a group. She chooses a short statement about her availability without posting personal details or committing to constant availability.

> Draft for administrator review. Clinical review and final rights approval are still pending.

Working together with the worksheet

2 | A conversation about one situation

Opening

Choose a situation the person wants to explore. It need not be the hardest situation. Check that the question is understood and the wording fits the person; their account comes before the therapist's interpretation.

1 | Question for discussion

What digital agreement is needed in my chosen relationship?

2 | Question for discussion

What are the expectations for response times and information sharing?

3 | Question for discussion

What personal or professional boundary matters to preserve?

4 | Question for discussion

How will we phrase a limited agreement with clear exceptions?

5 | Question for discussion

How will we update it if conditions change?

Closing

Summarize what became clearer and what remains open. Use the existing SES-S01 and SES-S02 for the session framework. There is no need to repeat an assessment or plan already recorded.

Possible difficulties

If fear of a reaction to a boundary arises, assess safety and support before communication practice. A boundary being disregarded does not prove the wording was wrong.

Adapting for four age groups

3 | Age is a starting point, not an assumption about ability

CH | Children, approximately ages 6 to 11

An adult is responsible for protection and responding to online pressure. The child is not required to confront, prove, or bring a screenshot of harmful content.

Offer one question at a time with little writing. Adult support must not replace the child's own voice.

TE | Adolescents, approximately ages 12 to 17

Respect peer relationships and explained confidentiality limits. Do not present location sharing or account access as a condition of friendship or family trust.

Agree in advance what will be shared and with whom, and explain the privacy limits in this setting. Do not promise absolute confidentiality.

AD | Adults

Distinguish a relative's expectation from agreed workplace policy. Preserve third-party privacy and do not record personal messages on the sheet.

OA | Older adults

Communication preferences are not measured by technological skill. A helper clarifies what the person wants to share and does not change an agreement for them without their knowledge.

Offer reading support, time, and conversation according to preference. Choose help from another person together with the participant, respecting their privacy.

> Each age version needs its own review. Approval of one version does not automatically approve the others.

Practice, review and next steps

4 | Shared choice and learning from the attempt

Before offering practice sheet P

Wording can be practiced in the session without sending it. Contacting another person or changing a setting requires consent; sharing the form itself is not mandatory.

At the next session

Check whether the agreement enabled connection and choice. The setting can be changed or help requested even when the boundary was clearly worded.

Professional and technical records

Each version has a separate review record covering age suitability, originality, rights, and fictional filling. Reviewer and date fields remain blank until assigned. File checks or a code merge are not clinical approval. Clinical information stays only in the authorized setting, outside the code repository.
