SLEEP-01 | Therapist only - all age groups

Understanding my evening and morning

1 | Purpose, fit and boundaries

Purpose of this unit

Explore together how context, the body and daily demands meet rest time. Choose one evening and morning to discuss, without measuring success by sleep duration.

Choice and adaptation

Choose this sheet following professional assessment and with consent. The person may skip questions, answer aloud, or choose another tool. This is proposed original material for review; it provides no score, diagnosis, or promise of an outcome.

Boundaries specific to this unit

This is not treatment for a sleep disorder, sleep restriction, medication guidance or a universal sleep-hours target. Do not request repeated clock checking. Persistent difficulty, daytime effects, pain or suspected breathing problems require appropriate professional assessment; this sheet does not replace it.

Reusing existing material

Existing regulation sheets may be used by preference. Do not present them as a requirement for falling asleep or duplicate a medical assessment.

> Draft for administrator review. Clinical review and final rights approval are still pending.

Working together with the worksheet

2 | A conversation about one situation

Opening

Choose a situation the person wants to explore. It need not be the hardest situation. Check that the question is understood and the wording fits the person; their account comes before the therapist's interpretation.

1 | Question for discussion

What evening and morning will I choose to describe?

2 | Question for discussion

What demands or conditions affected rest time?

3 | Question for discussion

What did I notice in my body or thoughts without measuring time?

4 | Question for discussion

What helped and what interfered, including things outside my control?

5 | Question for discussion

What daytime effect or question would I like to discuss with a professional?

Closing

Summarize what became clearer and what remains open. Use the existing SES-S01 and SES-S02 for the session framework. There is no need to repeat an assessment or plan already recorded.

Adapting for four age groups

3 | Age is a starting point, not an assumption about ability

CH | Children, approximately ages 6 to 11

The adult is responsible for conditions and support; the child is not responsible for falling asleep. Drawing an evening and morning is an option.

Offer one question at a time with little writing. Adult support must not replace the child's own voice.

TE | Adolescents, approximately ages 12 to 17

Explore school, relationships and personal space without presuming screens are to blame. Sharing with a parent is agreed through conversation.

Agree in advance what will be shared and with whom, and explain the privacy limits in this setting. Do not promise absolute confidentiality.

AD | Adults

Consider shift work, caring for others, housing and limited choices. Do not assume a uniform routine.

OA | Older adults

Explore preferences and living conditions without attributing difficulty solely to age. Medical and medication questions are addressed with the appropriate professional.

Offer reading support, time, and conversation according to preference. Choose help from another person together with the participant, respecting their privacy.

> Each age version needs its own review. Approval of one version does not automatically approve the others.

Practice, review and next steps

4 | Shared choice and learning from the attempt

Before offering practice sheet P

Decide together whether practice between sessions is appropriate at all. Define one opportunity, boundaries, and desired support. Practice may take place only in the session. There is no required daily sequence or requirement to share the sheet with others.

At the next session

Explore what the person learned about comfort and conditions, not how well they fell asleep. If the attempt increases pressure or repeated checking, stop and choose another way to explore the difficulty.

Professional and technical records

Each version has a separate review record covering age suitability, originality, rights, and fictional filling. Reviewer and date fields remain blank until assigned. File checks or a code merge are not clinical approval. Clinical information stays only in the authorized setting, outside the code repository.
