Ages 6–7: sharing learning with therapist support

1 | Purpose, fit and boundaries

Purpose of this unit

Hear the child's experience after already agreed, adapted treatment work and gather supporter observations for the therapist's learning review.

Choice and adaptation

Choose this sheet following professional assessment and with consent. The person may skip questions, answer aloud, or choose another tool. This is proposed original material for review; it provides no score, diagnosis, or promise of an outcome.

Boundaries specific to this unit

No child-alone ERP instructions, grades for fear or requirement to continue until distress disappears. The form sets no new treatment action. Encouragement for participation must not depend on a particular report.

Reusing existing material

OCDYC is separate from ages 8 and over. Shortening an adult form does not establish suitability. Earlier OCDYC learning may help, but unit 5 does not prescribe a session number.

A fictional example for discussion

Fictional example: After therapist-supported work, Daniel describes asking for help. His mother describes how he asked without grading his feelings. The therapist explores learning and unclear points.

> Draft for administrator review. Clinical review and final rights approval are still pending.

Working together with the worksheet

2 | A conversation about one situation

Opening

The therapist or support person reads one question. The child may use a few words, point or skip. Adults may write the child's words but not answer for them. Professional terms and descriptions of every thought are not required.

1 | Question for discussion

What moment from our work together do I remember?

2 | Question for discussion

What did I think would happen before we began?

3 | Question for discussion

What did I notice happening?

4 | Question for discussion

When did I want help or an explanation?

5 | Question for discussion

What do I want to ask now?

Closing

Summarize what became clearer and what remains open. Use the existing SES-S01 and SES-S02 for the session framework. There is no need to repeat an assessment or plan already recorded.

Possible difficulties

A child may remember only a small detail or not want to share. Do not extract reports through interrogation. Supporters can note observations and leave meaning for discussion.

Child, support person and therapist — separate roles

3 | Ages 6–7 only; developmental and family adaptation required

The voice of the child aged 6–7

One question can start a conversation. Distress ratings and explanations of adult concepts are unnecessary.

The parent or support person's role

Describe behavior and context without treating silence as consent or fear as failure. Keep observations separate from the child's voice.

The therapist's role and adapting the setting

The learning question and framework are defined in treatment. Check whether follow-up recording suits the family and whether reassessment is needed.

Limits of the material

Mapping against a full OCD manual and professional approval remain pending. This is original support material for review, not an approved ERP manual or its replacement.

> Do not apply this pathway to other age groups without separate review.

Practice, review and next steps

4 | Shared choice and learning from the attempt

Before offering practice sheet P

The P sheet is shared: two questions for the child's voice and three for supporter observations. Use only as agreed with the therapist, without child-alone exposure homework, abrupt response changes or punishment. Daily records and thought counts are unnecessary.

At the next session

Review learning, participation and choice even when difficulty remains. If unsuitable, the therapist reassesses; do not add attempts based on the sheet.

Professional and technical records

Each version has a separate review record covering age suitability, originality, rights, and fictional filling. Reviewer and date fields remain blank until assigned. File checks or a code merge are not clinical approval. Clinical information stays only in the authorized setting, outside the code repository.

Background references

The following links were used for background only. Questions and adaptations were written afresh for the expansion plan; no questionnaire, scale, or protocol was copied. Adult sources do not validate the child versions. This material makes no claim about session count or treatment effectiveness.

Treatment-manual mapping status

Mapping against a full OCD manual and professional approval remain pending. This is original support material for review, not an approved ERP manual or its replacement.
